

Amy P. Lenart is in her 18th year as an educator, with the last 15 years being spent in the Burrell School District. Four of those years were in the capacity of a classroom teacher and the last eleven years have been as the Principal of Stewart Elementary and then Bon Air Elementary. Prior to working in Burrell School District, Amy was also a part of the education community in both the Jeannette City School District and the Penn Hills School District.

Amy imagined herself as a teacher since a very young age and pursued that desire starting back in high school when she took her first early childhood class. From there, she went on to Duquesne University to earn her Bachelor's of Science in Early Childhood Education and Elementary Education (1998). Amy accepted her first teaching job that same year as she worked on her Master's of Science in Educational Leadership, which was also earned at Duquesne University. Upon receiving her Master's degree, she continued on with her education and completed the courses necessary to receive her K-12 Principal's Certification.

Amy enjoys spending time with her family when she isn't spending time with her students and staff. She believes that Bon Air Elementary is an amazing school that is filled with hard working children and adults. There is no end to the possibilities that lie within all of us and that is why the Bon Air staff believes in the success of each and every student in the school. Through the hard work and strong commitment by everyone, Bon Air Elementary is a school that everyone should be proud to attend. It is also one in which Amy is honored to be the principal and she truly believes that she has found her home here. She is excited for the years ahead and for the future of the Burrell School District.
